April 2024

Greetings from the NCI Office of Data Sharing!

Spring is officially here and in full bloom around NCI. President Biden has proclaimed this April National Cancer Prevention and Early Detection Month, and data is helping the cancer community learn precisely how to do both. ODS will be kickstarting the month by participating in the Annual Meeting of the American Association of Cancer Research (AACR) taking place in San Diego from April 5 – 10, and we'll have some new web pages and data resources available for the community throughout April. Stay tuned for more information about those launches, and thank you for signing up to receive updates!
