ODS launched its inaugural data jamboree focusing on pediatric and AYA cancer on September 29 – 30, 2025, in conjunction with its 3rd Annual Symposium. This event aimed to overcome barriers in finding, accessing, and utilizing cancer research data, facilitate interdisciplinary collaborations, and gain real-time feedback and suggestions of areas of improvement. In merely 1.5 days, 23 interdisciplinary project teams formed to tackle specific problems in several broad project categories, including enhancing data interoperability, building study cohorts, developing, or validating informatics tools and pipelines, evaluating data quality and AI-readiness, integrating, and analyzing data, and developing tutorials and educational materials.
